The following Certificate has been received from Lawrence Read, Esq., Professor of Chemistry to the New-York Hospital, and will be read with attention New-York Hospital, May 31, 1851.

Mr. William Bogle, of Boston, has submitted to me his various toilet soaps, for chemical examination and my cannot be seen to be supported by the company of the compa various toilet soaps, for chemical examination and my opinion.

From the analysis I have made, and from my knowledge of Mr. Bogle's process, and the materials he uses, and my high appreciation of his skill as a practical chemist, coupled with the fact, that the raw material he uses can be obtained cheaper in this country than abroad, I am not surprised at his producing a better soap, and one much less hable to have an unitrous effect on the skin than the foreign.

The artistic skill with which the articles are put up is also well worthy of commendation.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just poblished Volume Second of LIVES OF THE QUEENS OF SCOTLAND and Baglish Princesses connected with the Regal Secession of Great Britain. By Agness Strickland. Elmo, muslin 51. Vol. II contains the Life of Mary of Lorraine, Second Queen of James V., and the Life of Lady Margaret Douglass. Countess of Lonnor. "Biss Strickland has, we think "Learned from Say Walter Scott the charm by which he elevated romance to the dignity of history; but she has reversed the process—she has given to history the interest of romance. In the volume before us Miss Strickland has not only been fortunate in the selection of her subject, but she has sustained to the full the high reputation for research which her previous writings have acquired. Her choice has indeed been evidently directed to that period when Soutish history assumes the highest interest, and connects itself most closely with the sympa hies of the present day. Every one must be curious to peruse Miss Strickland's life of Mary Stuart."
